

Clement Castigador Camposano, Ph.D.

Profile

Clem Camposano earned his Ph D. in Philippine Studies (Anthropology) from the Tri-College Program of the University of the Philippines - Diliman in 2009. He holds an M.A. in Political Science from U.P Diliman (1992) and a B.A. in Political Science and History (double major) from U.P. Visayas (1986). His current research interest is in the anthropology of contemporary migration, anthropology of education, Philippine history and culture, as well as citizenship and civic education. He has published articles in scholarly and peer-reviewed journals and has consistently presented academic papers in both local and international conferences.

He is the current President of the Philippine Studies Association (PSA) and served in the board of the Anthropological Association of the Philippines/Ugnayang Pang-Aghamtao (UGAT) until 2016. As a practicing ethnographer, he actively works with the Philippine Social Science Council (PSSC) in providing trainings in qualitative research methods to the academic staff of various educational institutions. He also sits in the Editorial Advisory Board of Filipinas: Journal of the Philippine Studies Association, Inc. Dr. Camposano has had a long academic career, serving various institutions in different capacities. He is presently a faculty member at the Division of Curriculum and Instruction – Educational Foundations, College of Education, University of the Philippines Diliman where he teaches courses in the anthropology and sociology of education. Prior to joining U.P. Diliman in 2017, he was a faculty member at the University of Asia and the Pacific (UA&P) where he taught courses in Philippine history and culture, Southeast Asian history, social science research, political theory and political dynamics. He also served as Executive Director of the Institute of Political Economy at UA&P. Before joining UA&P, he was Assistant Professorial Lecturer at De La Salle University – Taft from 1998 to 2000, Assistant Professor of Political Science at U.P. Visayas (UPV) from 1992 to 1997 and its Dean of Student Affairs from 1995 to 1997. Dr. Camposano began teaching in 1986 at West Visayas State University in Iloilo City (WVSU), joining UPV as an Instructor in 1987.

Publicly engaged, he served five terms from 2010 to 2016 as Chairman of the Board of Trustees of the Philippine Center for Civic Education and Democracy (PCCED), a non-profit organization dedicated to the promotion of active citizenship and civic engagement which he helped found with colleagues from the University of Asia and the Pacific. Through PCCED and in his own personal capacity, he has been actively involved in promoting civic education programs in public schools and local government units in different parts of the country. From 2005 to 2006 he was a policy consultant for the Local Government Support Program (LGSP) of the Canadian International Development Agency (CIDA) and led the technical team that prepared the LGSP Policy Development Guide for the League of Cities of the Philippines.

CURRICULUM VITAE

A. Academic background

Ph. D. in Philippine Studies, 2009 (University of the Philippines – Diliman; major in anthropology and minor in sociology, and with research interest in the anthropology of migration)

Master of Arts in Political Science, 1992 (College of Social Sciences and Philosophy, University of the Philippines –Diliman; areas of concentration: Political theory and methodology, international relations, and comparative politics)

Bachelor of Arts in Political Science and History (double major), 1986 (College of Arts and Sciences, University of the Philippines – Visayas)

Dissertation (2009):

“Boxes, Selves and Households: The transnational traffic in goods and the everyday politics of self-making among Ilonggo OFWs in Hong Kong”

Note: This was a multi-site ethnographic analysis of the Filipino practice of regularly sending home consumer goods, usually through so-called “balikbayan” boxes. The study explored the emotional economy and the politics of self-making within contemporary transnational Filipino households. It formed part of a research strand exploring transnational householding processes as sites of contestation, ambivalence and contradiction. In showing how the traffic in goods reflects the struggle of migrant women to achieve biographical coherence, the study was a contribution to the growing anthropological literature on the way the world of everyday objects frames and constitutes relationships.
